From: Dan
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/16/02 10:04pm
Subject: "Microsoft Settlement"

I think you should at least consider actually reducing Microsoft's ability to be a monopoly. As they have a history of breaking their promises, maybe you should, for example, force the company to actually use industry standards, so that other companies can compete. Force them to reveal their APIs. Yes, it means they give up some small part of their intellectual property. But, they are a criminal monopoly, some form of punishment is a good idea.